

Gilmanton Contra Dance Sept 11, 2010

Friendliest dance around!

Great Calling!
Marcie
Van Cleave

Great Live Music!
Roger Treat
& Lloyd Carr

Marcie Van Cleave has been teaching and leading traditional dances in the New England area since the mid-1980s with her characteristic high energy and humor. Some of her dance teaching experience includes school programs and residencies, international folk dance series, and couples dance lessons such as waltz and hambo. Marcie has been a member of English ritual dance teams for over twenty years and currently dances on a rapper sword side. She plays recorders, and is now an avid fiddle student. She has been the Executive Director of the Folk Arts Center of New England since 1988 See <http://www.facone.org>

Lloyd Carr on the Piano. If you've been to the Nelson dances, you've seen that while Roger fiddles around, Lloyd Carr entertains everyone on the piano. Originally from New York City, Lloyd found contra dancing when he moved to NH to teach at Rivier College. He felt a strong connection with the special quality of the tunes and rhythms of the Cape Breton music. He started playing the piano 10 yrs ago and has spent the last 10 summers in Cape Breton working on mastering the style.

Roger Treat on the Fiddle. Known for his driving style, Roger was first inspired by the fiddlers he heard as a child while summering in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. Though a Vermont native, his focus remains rooted in the traditional dance music of Cape Breton. Roger is heard throughout the New England area playing Contra dances and ceilidhs - and has been a regular at the Monday night contra dance in Nelson since 1980.

Roger's love for the fiddle also led him to pursue the art of bowmaking; now, after a decade of experience, he is well respected in the field.
